INCLOSED HARBORS.

THE BOTTLE SHAPED TYPE IS COMMON THE WORLD OVER.

It Often Happens That Nature Herself Provides the Corks Also, In the Shape of Islands, That Almost Block Up the Entrances.

If we take a trip around the world over the maps of a good atlas we find that the geographical "bottle" is a very common type of harbor the world over. The coasts of Cuba show a succession of such inclosed bays, Havana harbor being typical. It often happens that nature herself provides the corks also, in the shape of islands that almost block up the entrance, or at least block the view from the outside. Such a cork is Corregidor island, in Manila bay, or the rocky Alcatraz fortress just inside the Golden Gate at San Francisco, and Smith key occupies a similar position at Santiago.

The Annapolis basin in Nova Scotia is very typical among these geographical bottles. A fairly good map of that beautiful country will show a narrow gap on the bay of Fundy side of the peninsula. This gap, known as Digby strait, breaks through a long ridge that the people call North mountain. Through this break rush the famous tides of Fundy and fill up an inland basin of salt water twenty miles long and several in width.

The entrance, from the outside, is mysteriously invisible to the landsman's eye. To a passenger crossing the bay of Fundy from St. John it seems as if the captain were steering his trim side wheeler head on into a blue mountain wall, but at last the forested mountain opens, and through the break the interior hills of Nova Scotia close the distance. One can imagine the tremendous tide race through the Digby strait when we know that the ordinary tidal rise in this region is anywhere from forty to seventy feet. It is so great, in fact, that the wharves at Digby are two storied affairs, and people go aboard steamers from the upper or lower story, according to the height of the tide.

New York harbor is in most respects a geographical bottle—only it has two mouths instead of one. Added to the principal opening, the Narrows, a sort of side entrance is provided by the East river, leading out into the sound.

The coast of Australia presents several examples of the geographical bottle, the finest being the harbor of Melbourne. An ordinary map shows this city situated apparently upon a first rate harbor of the bottle type. As a matter of fact, the bottle is really there—fully thirty-five miles across in either direction. Into this bay, called Port Philip, there flows the Yarra river, and, oddly enough, Melbourne, with its half million people, hides itself away nine miles up this stream. Below the city the river has two sand bars, which prevent the passage of large vessels. The heavy ocean traffic therefore has its terminus in the bay, whence the journey is continued to town by rail. The explanation for this awkward situation seems to be that in the early days of Melbourne the one idea of the settlers was to build up the river, never dreaming that one day it would become a great metropolis imprisoned behind the sands of the useless Yarra.

Rio Janeiro has a splendidly inclosed harbor—the best in all South America; better far than the shallow "Lake" Maracaibo, which looks so ideal upon the map. Here again at Rio we have a great salt water inlet, some seventeen miles across, communicating with the ocean by a narrow strait.

In nearly every case these natural bottles are what the geographer calls "drowned rivers"—that is to say, the coastal lands in the vicinity have subsided, allowing the sea to flow in and convert what was a lowland valley into a partly inclosed marine area. Divers have gone to the bottom of New York bay and have found there the ancient bed of the Hudson river as the stream flowed before the mouthward part of the valley subsided into the sea. The old bed reaches through the Narrows and well out into the floor of the Atlantic. Of course, as the sea water entered the sinking valley, any hills rising thereabout would become islands in the new order of things. And there we find them to this day in almost any of these inclosed inlets.—St. Nicholas.

Lost Her Perquisite.

There are people who make a boast of their timidity, and Mrs. Stapleton is among the number.

"I was born so," she announced with plaintive pride to a comparative stranger one day. "I inherit it from my mother. She was afraid of almost all animals. She never traveled, and she was in absolute terror of thunder showers and of high winds and of hail storms."

"Dear me!" said the listener, trying to be properly sympathetic. "How little enjoyment she must have had!"

"She was just like me in temperament," said the timid one pensively. "She didn't mind her sufferings so much if they were only understood, and she didn't conceal them.

"Now, I am in abject fear of spiders, and do you know at a place I visited one summer a great spider was crawling up my skirt, and one of my friends took it off and flung it away without saying one word to me. If I hadn't happened to turn quickly I should never have known there had been a spider near me! As I told her when I recovered from my hysterics, I should have thought she would have known better, as she was well aware that spiders always make me faint. But I think she'll never do such a thing again!"

MAKING OLD GLORY.

The Way Flags Are Turned Out With Modern Machinery.

By the aid of modern machinery only an hour is required for the manufacture of a silk or wool bunting American flag 6 by 10 feet in size. This task includes fourteen different operations and twenty years ago required a day and a half to accomplish. The last decade has witnessed the introduction of splicing and cutting machines as well as improved sewing machines. These have revolutionized the flag making industry.

The first step in making a flag, says the New York Sun, is to cut the stripes from huge rolls of red or white silk or wool bunting. Machinery accomplishes most of this, although some operatives equipped with huge shears are still employed. The stripes are given over to the machine operatives, by whom they are sewed together with lightninglike rapidity. The lock stitch is used and the thread fed from spools, each of which holds 24,000 yards.

The strips sewed together, the flag is ready to receive the union. The union is the blue field at the left upper corner of the flag bearing the forty-six stars, a star for every state, although most of the flags seen for some months will show only forty-five stars.

Stars of wool bunting flags are of muslin, although the union itself is of the same material as the body of the flag. A star is always half the width of a stripe of the flag it adorns.

Muslin stars are cut out by machinery at the rate of 3,000 an hour. A star is five pointed, each being precisely like its fellow. As fast as the stars are cut out they are passed to girls who, standing at long tables, arrange them on the unions. Then they are basted in place by hand and turned over to the machine operatives.

Placing the union in position follows, two unions being required for each flag, one on either side. Stripes and union joined, the finishers take the flag in hand. Strong canvas bands are sewed across the headings, the bands having grommets, or eyelets, in the corners. In the case of large flags for staffs the halliards run through these grommets.

Although every year more than 4,000,000 American flags are made in the fashion described, they form only a small proportion of the total number manufactured. Millions of printed flags come into existence every year, and their number is constantly increasing.

Trouble For Nothing.

To smuggle a human skeleton into Canada from Detroit a medical student dressed it in female attire and, seating it by his side in a buggy, crossed over the boundary line. After he got safely into his house he learned that there is no custom duty on skeletons.

THE MAKING OF GLUE

MATERIALS WHICH PRODUCE THIS USEFUL SUBSTANCE.

Waste From Hides, Horns and Hoofs of Animals Is Used, but the Sinews of Animals Slaughtered For Food Give the Best Results.

Few substances are more generally useful than glue. At one time or another nearly every householder has to use it, yet few persons know anything about the different kinds or which is best for the purpose in hand.

For ordinary repairs to articles of wood, especially if no severe strain is to be placed upon the object, the prepared glues are convenient and adequate. They are therefore often chosen in preference to the old fashioned sort. But for strength and durability no glue which is applied cold can compare with the kind that is first melted in a glue pot and then applied hot, and of this kind there are many grades, which vary greatly in quality.

The manufacture of hard glue, as it is usually called—that is, glue which is to be used hot—is to a large degree the utilization of waste products. The raw materials are pieces and scrapings from hides, chips and dust from horn working factories, parings from hoofs and, best of all, sinews from animals killed for food in the great slaughter houses.

The first process is a soaking in limewater, made thick enough to be called "milk of lime." In this bath the sinews and other glue material remain for two weeks or more, in order that all the grease and blood may be eaten away, but immediately on removal the material is exposed to currents of air, which allow any adhering lime to absorb carbonic acid. This checks the action of the alkali on the animal matter and makes it possible to keep the material in the dry state for an indefinite period or until it is desired to use it.

Previous to boiling, the scrap is again immersed for twenty-four hours in a bath of milk of lime. It is then placed in a caldron built on the plan of the housewife's familiar double boiler. This kind of vessel is necessary to prevent "burning on." Water is added, and the mass is gently boiled until a firm gelatinous liquid results from cooling.

The clear portion is now drawn off from the first caldron into a second vessel and is known as "first run sinew glue"—the best of all. A small quantity of alum dissolved in water is added for the purpose of clarifying the glue by causing it to precipitate its impurities.

In a second double boiler the liquid remains several hours, till it is perfectly clear, and is then run off into the congealing boxes, over the bottoms of which it spreads out in thin sheets. The boxes are run into the cooling rooms, where they remain until the glue has hardened enough to be removed in sheets, but not enough to be brittle. In this state it is ready to be cut.

The sheets are laid upon boards which have previously been wet to prevent the glue from sticking. Here the cutting is done with tightly stretched brass wires, as a firkin of butter is cut by the country grocer.

After a further drying on revolving nettings the sheets are dipped in hot water and rubbed with a brush to give them a polish. They then pass to the kilns for the "stove drying." This removes all moisture and leaves what appears to be a sheet of translucent yellowish brown bottle glass. Indeed, the best sinew glue seems on casual examination to be nearly as hard as glass, and a quick, sharp blow will produce a fracture that is clean cut and vitreous. The best of this glue is light in color.

The residuum left in the caldron when the "first run" of glue was drawn off is boiled and boiled again, so long as any gelatinous matter can be extracted from it. The product is glue of inferior grades, of course, but useful as sizing and for other purposes in various arts and industries. Although still classed as sinew glue, the later "runs" have not the strength of the first run. They are darker and less translucent.

Not many years ago nearly all the best glue was sold in sheets. Today by far the greater part is ground at the factories to the fineness of ordinary sawdust. Since in this form it dissolves more quickly, it is so preferred by woodworking factories, which use large quantities, but as the chances of adulteration are greater when the glue is ground the purchaser who wishes to be sure of strength and durability will choose the sheets.—Edward Williston Frentz in Youth's Companion.

Why Dreams Come True.

There is a scientific explanation of the fact that illness, at least, can be foretold in dreams. The theory is that when a man is dreaming his mind is more sensitive than in his waking hours, for the simple reason that his actual surroundings are not engaging any of the mind's attention. Thus it happens that when some disease has set in, the man awake does not feel it in its earliest stages, although the active mind in a sleeping body does feel it. The sleeper dreams, let us say, that he is suffering some complaint of the leg, and two or three days later, the disease having developed, he finds that he really has got a bad attack of rheumatism. Harvey, who discovered the circulation of the blood, records having had a dream in which a bee stung him in his left thigh, on a place where a couple of days later appeared an ugly ulcer. The ulcer must have been developing, of course, at the time of the dream, but what the man in full consciousness could not perceive the man with only an active mind—i. e., dreaming—easily notices.

Blaine and an Appropriation.

When James G. Blaine was speaker of the house he cleverly got through a resolution appropriating $12,000 to the needy widowed daughter of President Zachary Taylor. This lady got as far as Washington on her way to Paris to see a sick daughter and, being destitute of money, appealed to her only friend at the capital, General Sherman. His purse was always open to the distressed, but he had not funds at all adequate to relieve her necessities. In this emergency he thought of Blaine. The man from Maine entered into the spirit of the occasion as soon as he heard General Sherman's statement. He called another to the chair and made a five minutes' speech that fairly electrified the house, which passed the resolution Blaine had penned only a moment before. He took the resolution in person to the senate, where it was also immediately passed, had the president to sign it the next day, and on the following day the beneficiary got the money. General Sherman always insisted that Blaine would have made the grandest actor that ever lived and in adapting his career to politics he robbed the stage of a born star.

Horses and Furs.

"Never ship horses to New York in the fall or winter if you want to make a good sale," was the advice that was handed out to a western man who had a number of horses that he wished to dispose of at the Horse Exchange. "They'll make a better showing in the spring or summer," explained a trader on the exchange, "and impress the prospective trader with a sense of safety. It is more difficult to break in a western horse in New York ways in the winter than the summer. It really doesn't take him long to become used to the crowds and noises of the city at any time. The thing that throws him into panic is the sight of fur. In his mind furs are associated with some enemy or tormentor of the animal kingdom, and the sight and smell of fur garments arouse former fears. Some horses never do get over this weakness, and many dealers can vouch for cases in which horses that are otherwise perfectly satisfactory bring complaint from the purchaser on account of their dislike of furs."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Not One Cent For Tribute."

The copper piece with the legend, "Millions for defense, not one cent for tribute," is not a coin at all, but a medal commemorating our troubles with France during the Napoleonic wars. Resenting our Jay treaty with Great Britain, made while George Washington was president, and angry because we would not take sides in those wars, France, in 1797, began to attack our merchant ships, and we came very near becoming involved in war with her. We sent a commission over to try to arrange the trouble, and the French prime minister, Talleyrand, gave them to understand we could arrange it only by paying a bribe or making a loan to the French government. To this it was said that Charles Cotesworth Pinkney of South Carolina, a member of our commission, replied in the words noted on the medal. This he denied, however, his reply being simply, "No, no, no; not one sixpence."—St. Louis Republic.

FIGHTING BULLS.

They Are Easily Managed When They Are Massed Together.

In Spain accidents to bullfighters are of frequent occurrence, and it is interesting to see the hero of many fights swing into the chapel attached to the bull ring and kneel before the effigy of the Virgin Mary before entering the arena.

Bullfighting is the national pastime. Boys play at it in the gutters, and there are bullfights for amateurs all over the country at which only two year-old bulls are used and young and old descend into the arena. Astounding is the enthusiasm.

Interesting, too, is the psychology of bulls. When herded together they are docile enough, and it is a picturesque sight to see the bulls brought into the paddock prior to the fight through the streets of the city when all are sleeping. A cow trained to the business with a bell around her neck, is all that is necessary, and the bulls follow quietly behind her.

In the plains where the bulls are reared men on horses manage them quite easily so long as they are massed together. Three bulls in the ring together would be useless for a fight, but each bull separately will fight to the death.

Bulls literally see red. Were it not that a bull will always dash at anything red the men in the ring would have no chance whatever. Occasionally bulls have what is called the evil eye and remain indifferent to the red cape extended to them, and then the list of casualties is generally high.

Sometimes a bull which has shown prodigious power and fight is pardoned by the populace. A cow, kept for the purpose, is then sent into the arena, and at sight of her the bull forgets man and the fury of the battle and generally trots behind to the paddock as meek as any heifer.

Many are the curiosities about bulls, which sometimes refuse to attack a particular horse and when a man is down, motionless, disdain even to paw him. Some bulls make instinctively for one man and will chase him all around the ring, leaping the barrier if he vaults over it, and if he falls will kneel upon his body and gore him to shreds. There is no mercy in bulls, and none is shown to them.—Nineteenth Century.

PASSWORDS AT THE BANKS.

A Secret Sign Given Those Who Cannot Write Their Names.

The banks give secret passwords to depositors who cannot read or write. When one of these depositors goes to draw out money the cashier leans forward and whispers:

"What's your password?"

The depositor whispers an answer, and if the correct password is given the money is paid out.

In a bank the other day a negro woman sat upon a bench, her face indicating intense application of mind. The cashier nodded toward her and said:

"She's forgotten her password and is trying to think of it. She came to the window awhile ago and wanted to get some money. She only wanted a small amount. But she can't write. She's one of quite a number of our depositors who are given passwords when they open an account. When she came in I asked her to give her name and address. She answered right up. 'What's your password?' I asked her.

"'M-m,' she exclaimed, pursing her lips, 'let me see. Ain't dat peculiah? Hit done 'scaped mah mind now.'

"'Can't you think of it?' I said. 'You know I can't pay the money until you give me the password?'

"'Lord, honey,' she exclaimed, 'Ah's mighty nigh dat money! But Ah jes' can't 'member hit now.'

"'Well, sit down and think it over,' I suggested to her. 'It may come to you.'"

In a few minutes the old woman arose with a happy look upon her face and went up to the cashier's window. She put her face as far inside the narrow window as she could and whispered:

"Abraham Linkun."

"Correct," answered the cashier, and he paid her the money she was after.

"Ah jes' couldn't place dat name at first," she said as she went out.—Kansas City Star.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

Session of Thursday Was a Dull One. Little of Interest.

The session of the circuit court of Thursday was a dull one, there being little of interest to those except whom were directly interested.

The court opened in the usual form, when it was announced that R. H. Kinnebrew had been admitted to practice law in the State of Florida.

Information was introduced against Tom Mack, charged with selling liquor in a county which had voted against the sale of same.

The first case called was that of the State vs. Chas. Davis, assault with intent to murder. Defendant went to regular trial, and a verdict of not guilty was rendered.

The case of the State vs. J. R. Cathcart, assault with intent to murder, was next taken up. Defendant was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. Jury was called and sworn, case submitted, and verdict of assault with intent to commit man-slaughter.

Lucinda Hall, convicted Tuesday for aggravated assault, was sentenced to a fine of $10 and costs or three months.

In the case of the State vs. W. M. Thomas, murder, a plea in abatement was made, to which the State demurred. The defendant was then arraigned and pleaded not guilty.

Court adjourned until 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Haymans Buys More Property.

J. J. Haymans, the naval stores operator of Lochloosa, is in the city.

Mr. Haymans, who is a mighty clever fellow, apparently has a great deal of confidence in the future of Gainesville, as he is continually buying up property. He recently purchased the Porter block and the building in which The Sun is located, and Wednesday secured from B. R. Colson two desirable building lots on Alachua avenue, East Gainesville.

In speaking of his deal Mr. Haymans says he is well pleased. He admires the lots he has just purchased a great deal, and will at an early date begin the erection of a home, when he will move his family here.

Gainesville welcomes such people as Mr. Haymans, as this class is the kind which makes a town grow.

North Gainesville Improvements.

North Gainesville is progressing along with the rest of the country, when it comes to building. Several new homes have been erected in that section recently, among which are two houses of Nimrod Wells, a handsome five-room cottage by R. T. Schafer, and others. The latest addition to building in North Gainesville will be the home of Mr. Sheffield, who is erecting a nice cottage for himself and family, and which is destined to prove of great convenience.

Obituary.

John Edmund Simms died at his home, North Gainesville, Oct. 24th, 1906, aged twenty-eight years, three months and three days. For more than two years he had been afflicted with that dread disease—consumption. He came with his parents to Gainesville February last, thinking to improve his health. Everything was done for his relief that human kindness and skill could do, to no avail. Death called for him, and he could not longer stay.

His death was very sad, coming as a great shock to the family, he being suddenly stricken at the table while eating his dinner, and living but a few moments.

Ed, as he was most familiarly known by his friends, was born at Winfield, Putnam county, W. Va., July 21st, 1878. When about fourteen years of age his parents moved with him to Union county, Indiana, where he grew up to manhood, commanding the esteem and favor of all who knew him. He was kind of heart, noble of disposition, upright of character, always thoughtful of his fellow-man, honoring His Father in heaven. He leaves to mourn his death a mother, father, one brother, and one sister, besides hosts of sympathizing friends.

Adieu, dear brother, thy sufferings are o'er,
Affliction nor sorrow can reach thee no more;
Adieu, till we meet thee in mansions above,
United forever in friendship and love.

A FRIEND.

HYOMEI CURES CATARRH.

Costs Nothing Unless It Gives Relief.
Sold Under Guarantee.

No matter how severe or chronic a case of catarrh you may have, consult J. W. McCollum & Co. about the use of Hyomei. They have so much faith in the efficacy of this treatment that they give their personal guarantee with every outfit they sell that it will effect a cure, or the money will be refunded.

In many instances Hyomei has cured catarrh when the patient has suffered from childhood. Quite a few people in Gainesville who have been unable for years to get a good night's sleep on account of the disagreeable tickling and dropping at the back of the throat, have obtained quick relief from a few treatments with Hyomei, and the continued use has made a complete and lasting cure.

There is no stomach dosing when one uses Hyomei. Simply breathe its medicated healing through the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, and all catarrhal germs will be killed and the mucous membrane will be healed.

A complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1, sufficient for at least two-weeks' treatment, making it one of the most economical methods of curing catarrh. If the outfit does not complete a cure, extra bottles of Hyomei, if needed, can be bought for 50 cents. Remember that there is no risk in buying Hyomei. It costs nothing unless it cures.

Materialistic Man.

Sir James Crichton-Browne, the English physician, speaking before some members of his profession, protested against the tendency to adopt too materialistic an explanation of man. The raw material of a medical practice became a mere contrivance of matter and force; the brain of this poor consumer of pills and potions a "glue-like substance, nine-tenths water, with a little phosphorus thrown in." "They left us man," said Sir James, with a smashing figure, "a motor car, self made and self started, with no passengers and no chauffeur, moved by a series of explosions or redistributions of energy, and rushing on to inevitable destruction."

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given that on the 22nd day of December, A. D. 1906, I will apply to Honorable J. T. Get rid of the Lard Habit

Cottolene makes pies and pastry digestible—it makes crisp, flaky pie-crust—the kind that will melt in your mouth rather than stick in the pit of your stomach.

There is no getting away from the fact that lard is the fat of the pig. There was a time in the olden days when lard was made from a particular part of the pig, the selected part—it was called the "leaf"—that is, the peritoneum; but, with the growth of the industry lard is now thrown on the market made from pig-fat from all portions of the animal, and lard, today, is not as good as the lard of years ago—in fact it is more indigestible, and more unhealthy.

Cottolene is a cleanly vegetable product made from pure, refined cotton seed oil. It makes food palatable, digestible and healthful.

Cottolene is the purest and best shortening. It is not a substitute for lard, but an improvement upon lard or any other shortening. When you accept a substitute for Cottolene you are not getting your money's worth. Cottolene is the original and only shortening on the market. It is preferable in more ways than one—in purity, results and healthfulness.

Try Cottolene for a short time, and you will find that your digestion is noticeably improved. Follow directions given on the pail.

COTTOLENE was granted a GRAND PRIZE (highest possible award) over all other cooking fats at the recent Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and food cooked with COTTOLENE another GRAND PRIZE.

"Home Helps" a book of 300 choice recipes, edited by Mrs. Rorer, is yours for a 2 cent stamp, if you address The N. K. Fairbank Company, Chicago.

A NEW FEATURE—The patent air-tight top on this pail is for the purpose of keeping COTTOLENE clean, fresh and wholesome; it also prevents it from absorbing all disagreeable odors of the grocery, such as fish, oil, etc.

Carbonic Acid Springs.

In the Auvergne region of France a large amount of carbonic acid gas comes from the soil and is one of the last traces of the former volcanic activity of this region. The springs that yield the gas are found generally in the fissures of the ground which allow the water to rise. One of the Montpensier springs has been known as the "poisoned spring." Animals which descend into the cavity to drink are soon asphyxiated by the gas which is given off by the water and accumulates here. Bodies of birds, rabbits, dogs, sheep and other animals are found, and even persons have narrowly escaped. Vegetation is also affected by an overdose of the gas. Spots can be seen running in a line across the fields, where the plants have suffered from gas coming up through the fissures of the ground at different points. Soundings show the presence of a great quantity of gas, and it is usually in a very pure state.

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit innoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

DAN SIMMS AGAIN IN TOILS OF LAW

Alleged That He Struck Step-Mother and Injured Her.

FINED IN MAYOR'S COURT

Was Fined Fifty Dollars or Imprisonment, But Grand Jury Got On to His Case, and an Indictment of Assault With Intent to Murder Was Found.

There is a "bunch" of young boys who have frequented High Springs for the past five years who are regarded as desperate characters, notwithstanding that their ages run from twelve to eighteen. This "gang" has been making life a nuisance to the good people of High Springs, it is said, and all efforts to break it up have proved futile until the last few months. The officers, who have endeavored to do their duty, were unable to check their lawlessness, but the gang is now partially dispersed, and it may be that High Springs will again rest with quietness.

Special Officer J. L. Shaw of High Springs, who is the night marshal of that town, brought to this city Thursday Dan Simms, a young white boy who struck his step-mother with a water pitcher several days ago, painfully injuring her. As soon as the crime was committed young Simms was arraigned in the mayor's court of High Springs and assessed a fine of $50 or imprisonment, and not having the money to pay his fine, has lain in the town jail for the past ten days.

The grand jury of the present term took this case up, and brought in an indictment against the young man for assault with intent to kill. He was consequently brought to this city, where he is now confined in the county jail.

Young Simms was released from custody only a few months ago, with other members of the "gang," upon a charge of breaking and entering a railroad car and taking goods therefrom.

MARY CAMPBELL.

The Lassie Who Was the Original of "Highland Mary."

The original of "Highland Mary" was Mary Campbell, a highland lassie who was a servant at Castle Montgomery, with whom Burns became acquainted during his residence at Mossgiel. To her he addressed the lines, "Will ye go to the Indies, my Mary?" and many others. In a note to one of his poems on Mary, Burns says: "After a pretty long time of the most ardent reciprocal feeling we met by appointment on the second Sunday of May in a sequestered spot by the banks of the Ayr, where we spent a day in taking a farewell before she should embark for the west highlands to arrange matters among her friends for our projected change of life. At the close of the autumn following she crossed the seas to meet me at Greenock, where she had scarce landed when she was seized with a malignant fever, which hurried my dear girl to her grave before I could even hear of her illness." The love which Burns felt for Mary Campbell appears to have been deeper than any he ever felt before or after. Years later, when he was married and had a family, her memory inspired the pathetic lines "To Mary In Heaven," which breathe the soul of tender melancholy.—London Tit-Bits.

The Earth's Insides.

Is the earth made up of three concentric spheres? A physician says that such is the case. The solid nucleus he supposes to be between 3,000 and 7,000 miles in diameter, and this is surrounded by a liquid substratum, outside of which is the crust, variously estimated at 70 to 200 miles in thickness. More than two centuries ago a similar theory, including the slow rotation of the inner solid sphere on a different axis from that of the entire globe, was built by Dr. Edmund Halley to account for the changes in the earth's magnetism. The axis of the nucleus was thought to have been originally that of the entire globe, and to the change of its engine was attributed the deluge. The earth's internal heat, it is now pointed out, may be accounted for by the friction of the different rotating bodies.

Bad Importations.

Englishmen introduced the rabbit to Australia, where it ruined vast areas of valuable land. Weasels sent to correct the mistake found ground birds good eating and let the rabbits alone. Scotsmen bestowed the thistle upon New England and then wished they hadn't. A pesty water weed of which Englishmen are fond was transplanted to New England and there so that it dams broad rivers. The mongoose sent to Jamaica to kill off the cane rats exterminated them and developed a fine

A Theatrical Superstition.

They were rehearsing a new play, and every one was nervous, for the first night was close at hand. The play was a tragedy, yet at its end the dying heroine, as the curtain descended, said:

"Three beers, please."

Those words concluded the play. Yet they were entirely out of keeping. The concluding words should have been, "I die, but, since I have saved you, I die happy," or something to that effect.

A dramatic critic new to the business asked how it was that the tragedy ended with "Three beers, please," and the stage manager said:

"Superstition. It is always thought bad luck in rehearsals of new plays to speak the last sentence before the opening night. He who has the last sentence to speak substitutes some meaningless phrase for it. If he dared to speak the true phrase the prospects of the play would be thought doomed. Some playwrights won't even write the last line of a play. They whisper it to the assembled company on its first reading, and from that day till the actual production the line is never again heard."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Pet Boars.

The nicest pet the French forest affords is the marcassin, or baby wild boar. It is almost human in its cleverness, delights in funny pranks, has an evident sense of humor, makes friends of children and dogs and even lends itself to mimic hunts, playing the part of the hunted animal. Its antics are varied and original. The only creature to which the marcassin objects is its distant relative, the pig. Directly it sees that animal its back is up and its growing tusk is bared. In babyhood it has a lovely sleek coat of very dark brown and tan. When the silky hair is shed and bristles take its place the temper grows uneven. If marital and paternal cares come on, the wild boar puts away its childish ways and wants to take its family to the forest to feed there on acorns and beech mast. Woe to the hound or to the keeper who wants to keep him back. In the forest this paterfamilias may be called the first line of defense, the sow the second, and the little ones gambol round her.—Paris Cor. London Truth.

The French.

The French were first mentioned as the Franks, a tribe of warlike Germans in the northwestern part of the region now known as Prussia. They came into notice about 240 A. D., and with other German tribes invaded the Roman empire in the fifth century and settled in the country now known as France. The word Frank, or Frankman, means freeman. After their conquest of Gaul they named the country Frankenrik, or Frank's kingdom.

BENEVOLENT VERDI.

His Generosity to Old Friends and to All Aged Musicians.

The population of the little Italian village where Verdi was born was made up of uneducated, hardworking laborers, and his surroundings were of the most prosaic kind. But the fire of genius was in the lad, says his biographer, and these unsympathetic environments were powerless to extinguish it.

The honor of first drawing attention to the boy's gifts lies with a poor itinerant violinist, Bagasset by name. In his wanderings he frequently visited Le Roncole. Little Giuseppe and he struck up a friendship, and it was Bagasset who suggested to the boy's father that the lad should be allowed to follow music as a profession. In after years when Verdi had become famous he found Bagasset again, then a very old man and poor, and, remembering the past, did all in his power to help him.

When Verdi was eight years old he became the proud possessor of an old spinet. This instrument he regarded with the greatest affection, and to the day of his death it occupied a place of honor at his estate near Busseto. There was an interesting and quaint inscription written on a part of it. It gives particulars of certain repairs which had been effected and ends: "This I do gratis in consideration of the good disposition the boy Giuseppe Verdi shows in learning to play on this instrument, which quite satisfies me for any trouble. Stephen Cavaletti, A. D. 1821."

This spinet meant everything in the world to the boy at this time, and it was his enthusiasm in subjecting it to the expression of the latent music that was in him that caused the damage and necessitated the repairs referred to.

Once he was playing chords on it and was delighted at having discovered the major third and fifth of C. Trying to repeat this the following day, he was unable to find the chord again. Try as he would, he could not succeed, so in childish rage he picked up a hammer and proceeded to bang the spinet. His father came upon the scene at this moment, and, taking the part of the spinet in this unequal encounter, he gave his son a lesson which doubtless sounded chords in the boy's brain which were a revelation to him.

The benevolence of Verdi after his success was a byword, and toward those less fortunate ones of his profession his help was at all times freely given. But everything was done in the most unobstrusive way. When his old librettist Piave was stricken with paralysis Verdi paid all the costs of his illness, made him an annual allowance and at his death met the expenses of the funeral. In addition to this, he provided for the support of the old man's daughter.

One day when he was chatting with Carducci, the famous poet, an organ outside struck up an air from "Trovatore." Thinking that Verdi would be disturbed, the poet went to the window to send the man away, but the composer pushed past him and, beckoning to the organ grinder below, threw a handful of silver out, saying to his friend:

"Let him go on; it pleases me, and, besides, we must all live somehow."

The perusal of his will shows that he never forgot those who had been kind to him in his struggling days. The bequest which is most widely known in his own country is the Home of Rest For Musicians in Milan.

It had always been a great idea of Verdi's to found some institution for the care of aged musicians whose labors had not resulted in making them independent in the years when their work had come to an end. In his will he devoted a large share of his property to this scheme, and his generous gift affords a home to 100 old musicians.—Youth's Companion.

THE WAILING WOMAN.

A Queer Old Legend of the City of Mexico.

As is generally known, senor, many bad things are met with at night in the streets of the city, but this wailing woman, La Llorona, is the very worst of them all. She is worse by far than the Vaca de Lumbre, that at midnight comes forth from the potrero of San Sebastian and goes galloping through the streets like a blazing whirlwind, breathing forth from her nostrils smoke and flames, because the fiery cow, senor, while a dangerous animal to look at, really does nobody any harm, and La Llorona is as harmful as she can be.

Seeing her walking along quietly—at the times when she is not running and shrieking for her lost children—she seems a respectable person, only odd looking because of her white skirt and the white reboso with which her head is covered, and anybody might speak to her. But whoever does speak to her in that very same moment dies!

No one who has stopped her to talk with her ever has lived to tell what happens at that terrible encounter, but it is generally known that what does happen is this: Slowly she turns toward the one who has spoken, and slowly she opens the folds of her white reboso, and then is seen a bare grinning skull set fast to a bare skeleton, and from her fleshless jaws comes one single icy cold breath that freezes into instant death whoever feels it. After that, shrieking again for her lost children, she rushes onward, the white gleam of her gashing the darkness, and in the morning the one who spoke to her is found lying dead there with a look of despairing horror frozen fast in his dead eyes.

What is most wonderful is that she is seen in the same hour by different people in places widely apart, one seeing her hurrying across the atrium of the cathedral, another beside the Arcos de San Cosme and a third near the Salto del Augua, over by the prison of Belen, and all in the very same moment of time.

She is so generally known, senor, and so greatly feared that nowadays few people stop her to speak with her, and that is fortunate. But her loud, keen wailings and the sound of her running feet are heard often and especially on nights of storm. I myself have heard them, senor, but I have never seen her. God forbid that I ever shall!—Thomas A. Janvier in Harper's.

I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to anyone suffering from kidney or bladder trouble." STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years.

Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for many years under her direction, and since her decease, she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me."

The Sultan's Rebuke.

An ambassador of a well known European monarch was riding in the streets of Constantinople when one of the sultan's carriages rolled by. Seeing it was guarded, his curiosity got the better of him, and when the carriage reached him he was daring enough to peep in at the passenger. He was surprised and pained to receive a blow in the face from an attendant in charge. Mad with rage, he demanded audience of the sultan. The sultan listened attentively and for a moment appeared lost in thought. At last he spoke: "My dear —, I have gone carefully into the case and see exactly how it stands. You are, of course, a gentleman. Therefore you would never have committed such a breach of good manners as you allege to have taken place. Therefore no attendant could possibly have struck you. The whole affair seems to be a product of your fancy. Let us dismiss it."

Sluggish Liver a Foe to Ambition.

You cannot accomplish very much if your liver is inactive as you feel dull, your eyes are heavy and slight exertion exhausts you. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup stimulates the liver and bowels and makes you feel bright and active. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does not nauseate or gripe and is mild and very pleasant to take. Orino is more effective than pills or ordinary cathartics. Refuse substitutes. J. W. McCollum & Co.

Tombstones to the Living.

"To a stranger the erection of a tombstone to a living person seems rather ghastly, but it's the custom in some New England villages," said the traveling man. "I was collecting quaint epitaphs for a magazine article, and, after I had put up my motor car on my arrival in a village, I would go straightway to the cemetery on an epitaph hunt. There I would find, set up in lot after lot, tombstones of living people. Each stone would contain the name and the date of birth. Ghastly, wasn't it? I met a pretty girl in a hotel in New Hampshire. She was the landlord's daughter. She showed me her stone in the cemetery. The last name was left blank in her case. 'I may marry, you know,' she explained."—New York Press.

The New Pure Food and Drug Law.

WHEN NOT TO KICK.

When you get a bad shave or hair cut. Neither lasts long.

When you find you're going to die poor. They haven't begun making pockets in shrouds yet.

When your health goes back on you. Life isn't very long, anyway, and a healthy man dies just as dead as a sick one.

When you discover a mean streak in your neighbor. He has to stay with that mean streak day and night, and you don't.

When you can't pay all your debts at once. Your creditors would a great deal rather get the money in driblets than not at all.

When you have had a bad meal set before you. You may get over it before the next meal even if you eat it, and you don't have to eat it.

When your wife isn't in good humor. She is partially balancing the books against some of your numerous disagreeable spells that you never make note of.—Chicago News.

Made Happy For Life.

Great happiness came into the home of S. C. Blair, school superintendent at St. Albans, W. Va., when his little daughter was restored from the dreadful complaint he names. He says: "My little daughter had St. Vitus' dance, which yielded to no treatment but grew steadily worse, until as a last resort we tried Electric Bitters, and I rejoice to say, three bottles effected a complete cure." Quick, sure cure for nervous complaints, general debility, female weaknesses, impoverished blood and malaria. Guaranteed by all drug stores. Price, 50c.

His Constancy.

A story is told of General Sir Alfred Horsford, who believed in a celibate army. A soldier once sought his permission to marry, saying he had two good conduct badges and $25 in the savings bank. "Well, go away," said Sir Alfred, "and if you come back this day year in the same mind you shall marry. I'll keep the vacancy." On the anniversary the soldier repeated his request. "But do you really, after a year, want to marry?" "Yes, sir, very much." "Sergeant major, take his name down. Yes, you may marry. I never believed there was so much constancy in man or woman. Right face. Quick march!" As the man left the room, turning his head, he said: "Thank you, sir. It isn't the same woman."

DETECTIVE ORDNANCE.

The Ordnance Department has discovered that our 12-inch guns are worthless and would not stand two hours of continuous firing and recommends the building of 14-inch guns and the use of less powder. As the warships are armed with similar guns, it would seem that our navy would be comparatively worthless for offense or defense after sixty rounds have been fired, for the experts declare that is the average life of these monster engines of war. The money the United States is spending on ships and guns that so soon become worn out is an enormous tax on the American people and until the experts of the Army and Navy Departments are assured of greater length of service of the results of their mechanical skill, Congress should refuse to appropriate for the manufacture of what is comparatively worthless.

THE NEGRO TROOPS.

The Jacksonville Times-Union of November 21 contains the following excellent editorial relative to the discharge of the negro troops:

It is but fair to let the administration speak for itself in regard to the discharge of the battalion of colored troops, some of whose members were guilty of riot and murder. Mr. Oliver, the acting secretary of war, presents the views of the department so forcibly that all who wish to be just should read what he says. Mr. Oliver says:

The three companies of the Twenty-fifth infantry were ordered discharged because it is not safe to have them in the army. They cannot be trusted for the protection of the public and preservation of the discipline of the army and their discharge is necessary. * * * These soldiers shot up a town. All of them refuse to tell anything about the disgraceful affair at Brownsville which resulted in murder. The companies are shielding murderers. There are men in the companies who are criminals of the worst sort. Every effort possible has been made by the war department to find the guilty men, but without avail. If these companies were permitted to remain in the service and were to shoot up another town and again endanger the lives of citizens, the war department would be in an indefensible position. It is impossible to courtmartial each of the men in these companies, for a charge cannot be preferred against every one of the companies. The government has no means of punishing the crime committed except by discharging all the men.

No town in the South would have been willing to have these men quartered in or near its limits. Then what would Southern people ask? That they be sent North? No town in the North would have been willing to receive them. Then would Northern people have them kept South? If not disbanded they would have to stay somewhere. What place is there for a command which every community in the Union thinks should be quartered somewhere else?

Of course there are men in the South who object to negro soldiers at all, but this had nothing to do with the disbandment of this battalion. It was disbanded because it permitted itself to be a refuge for murderers, and the army should keep no such place of refuge.

The South has a race problem which reaches beyond its borders and is not without effect in other sections. What could do more to increase the antagonism between whites and blacks than the "shooting up" of a town in the South by negro troops? Such an act would create ill-will everywhere.

In all race troubles, going to the extent of violence, the negroes have suffered vastly more than the whites. Generally they are numerically the weaker race. Almost everywhere they are less prepared than the whites for a test of force. This being true, they are even more vitally interested than the whites in preserving peaceful relations between the races. The negroes of the South have more cause than the whites to rejoice in the discharge of these soldiers, and certainly justice to the white people demanded that they be dismissed from the service.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson estimates that the corn crop harvested this year is 2,669,780,000. The Secretary may be correct, but we observe that the liverymen have recently advanced the price of board for live stock on account of the increased price of feed. Is it possible that the liverymen have formed a trust?

Luck, as some people call it, generally attends hard work and steady. When the powers-that-be in this world see that you mean business, and know how to attend to business, that which you call luck peeps at you over the horizon all right.

Incapacitated.

As the "extra hand" rose from his dinner in the farm kitchen the farmer's son informed him that he was to pitch hay in the afternoon.

"I won't do it!" was the curt reply.

"All right, please yourself. It doesn't make any difference to me," retorted the farmer's son. "My father told me to deliver the message, and if you don't pitch you'll get into trouble with him."

"I won't do it for either you or your father!" rejoined the man. "You should ha' told me sooner. At dinner time I filled myself for raking, and I can't pitch."

The First Scapegoat.

The word "scapegoat" originated in an ancient Hebrew custom practiced at the feast of the Passover. Placing a young goat upon the altar, the priests would pray over it, asking that all the sins of the people be visited upon the goat. Then, after each member of the tribe had transferred his guilt to the victim by laying on his hands, the animal was turned loose in the forests to be devoured by the wild beasts.

All Pleased.

"Sure to be. We've arranged it so that every member is chairman of some committee or other."—Philadelphia Ledger.

PIMPLES

"I tried all kinds of blood remedies which failed to do me any good but I have found the right thing at last. My face was full of pimples and blackheads. After taking Cascarets they all left. I am continuing the use of them and recommending them to my friends. I feel fine when I rise in the morning. Hope to have a chance to recommend Cascarets."

An Art Anecdote.

Edward Rosewater, founder and editor of the Omaha Bee, had a sincere love of art. He hated pictures that indicated scamped work, so called impressionistic pictures that were merely rough and hurried sketches and so called portraits that bore no likeness to their originals. A young painter showed Mr. Rosewater one day a portrait of a mutual friend.

"That a portrait of Smith!" the editor exclaimed. "I'd never have known it."

"Oh," the artist exclaimed, "I didn't try for a likeness, you know. I tried for an effect—an effect in grays."

"I know a man in New York," said Mr. Rosewater, "who had his portrait painted last year. It cost him $4,000, and he was very proud of it. When it came home he showed it to his cook.

"'Well, Mary,' he said, 'how do you like this portrait?'

"'Sure, sir,' said the cook, 'it's lovely. It's beautiful. It's divine.'

"'And of course,' said my friend, 'you know who it is?'

"'Oh, of course I do, sir,' said the cook. 'Of course, of course.' As she spoke she kept drawing nearer to the picture, studying it more and more closely. 'Of course, sir,' she said. 'It's you or the mistress.'"—Buffalo Enquirer.

There is No Reason

Why your baby should be thin, and fretful during the night. Worms are the cause of thin, sickly babies. It is natural that a healthy baby should be fat and sleep well. If your baby does not retain its food, don't experiment with colic cures and other medicine, but try a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, and you will soon see your baby have color and laugh as it should. Sold by W. M. Johnson.

Where the Audience Was.

A London actor appearing at a cheap theater in Salford found so small an audience that he sought out the manager for an explanation. "You see," the manager told him, "my people are at the Halle concert." "Oh," the actor said, surprised, "I should hardly have thought your patrons would care much for high class music." "No," the other explained; to tell the truth, they go to pick pockets."

Had a Close Call.

"A dangerous surgical operation involving the removal of a malignant ulcer as large as my hand from my daughter's hip, was prevented by the application of Bucklen's Arnica Salve," says A. C. Stuckel of Miletus, W. Va. "Persistent use of the salve completely cured it." Cures cuts, burns and injuries. 25c at all druggists'.

RUNNING SORES COVERED LIMBS

Little Girl's Obstinate Case of Eczema — Instantaneous Relief By Cuticura—Little Boy's Hands and Arms Also Were a Mass of Torturing Sores — Grateful Mother Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES A HOUSEHOLD STANDBY"

'In reply to your letter I write you my experience, and you are privileged to use it as you see fit. Last year, after having my little girl treated by a very prominent physician for an obstinate case of eczema, I resorted to the Cuticura Remedies, and was so well pleased with the almost instantaneous relief afforded that we discarded the physician's prescription and relied entirely on the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills. When we commenced with the Cuticura Remedies her feet and limbs were covered with running sores. In about six weeks we had her completely well, and there has been no recurrence of the trouble.

"In July of this year a little boy in our family poisoned his hands and arms with poison oak, and in twenty-four hours his hands and arms were a mass of torturing sores. We used only the Cuticura Remedies, washing his hands and arms with the Cuticura Soap, and anointed them with the Cuticura Ointment, and then gave him the Cuticura Resolvent. In about three weeks his hands and arms healed up; so we have lots of cause for feeling grateful for the Cuticura Remedies. We find that the Cuticura Remedies are a valuable household standby, living as we do twelve miles from a doctor, and where it costs from twenty to twenty-five dollars to come up on the mountain. Respectfully, Mrs. Lizzie Vincent Thomas, Fairmount, Walden's Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 13, 1905."

A Crusher For Conkling.

Roscoe Conkling was a capital boxer and quite proud of his skill. One evening after considerable banter he induced Senator Chandler to "put on the gloves" with him. He played with Chandler for a few rounds, much to the discomfiture of the latter. Chandler bided his time and some time later quietly brought a professional pugilist to dinner where Conkling was a guest. In the course of the evening "Mr Smith" was induced to engage in a boxing bout with Mr. Conkling. The professional danced around the senator, landing when and where he wished, playing with him as he would with a punching bag. The elegant New York senator was dazed, overwhelmed, humiliated, crushed. When he surrendered and called enough, as he did at last, Senator Chandler smiled blandly and presented the pugilist in his true colors.

A Year of Blood.

The year 1903 will long be remembered in the home of F. N. Tacket of Alliance, Ky., as a year of blood, which flowed so copiously from Mr. Tacket's lungs that death seemed very near. He writes: "Severe bleeding from the lungs and a frightful cough had brought me at death's door, when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, with the astonishing result that after taking four bottles I was completely restored, and as time has proven, permanently cured." Guaranteed for sore lungs, coughs and colds, at all drug stores. Price, 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

Over Eight Feet Tall.

King James I. had a gigantic porter eight feet six inches in height, but he was not perfect, being round shouldered, knock kneed and lame in one foot. Of a similar height was Charles Munster, a yeoman of the Hanoverian guard who died in 1670, and seven years before there was being exhibited in London a Dutchman eight feet nine inches high anent whom in Pepys' diary we find the following entry on Aug. 15, 1663: "West to Charing Cross to see the great Dutchman. I did walk under his arm with my hat on and could not reach his chin with the tips of my fingers."

PEWS FOR OLD MAIDS.

Quaint Distinctions In the Old Hatfield Meeting House.

Around three sides, about on a level with the pulpit, in the old meeting house at Hatfield, Mass., extended the galleries, reached by staircases on the northeast and southeast corners, where, in the front seats, sat the singers, treble on the north and basses on the south and counters and tenors on the west. The next two rows of seats were occupied by children, girls in the north and boys in the south, and frolicsome youngsters they were, if we may judge by the frequency with which the town was obliged to renew the brass tips to the staves of the tithing men, three of whom were always on duty to keep the youth from disorder.

Behind the children and still higher were square pews against the wall sat the young men and maidens, the latter on the north and the former on the south. One gallery pew was reserved for colored men and one for colored women, and queerest of all, a high square pew over the north stairway was assigned to old maids and a similar pew over the south stairs to old bachelors. Just how many years these two classes had to remain before they were promoted from the lower seats in the synagogue the records do not state, but that they sat in those exalted seats Samuel Dwight Partridge, to whom we are indebted for the description of the old meeting house, assures us is beyond question. The square pews on the floor were assigned to householders, according to wealth and social position.—Springfield Republican.

Always Was Sick.

When a man says he always was sick, troubled with a cough that lasted all winter—what would you think if he should say he never was sick since using Ballard's Horehound Syrup, but such a man exists. Mr. J. C. Clark, Denver, Colorado, writes: 'For years I was troubled with a severe cough that would last all winter. This cough left me in a miserable condition. I tried Ballard's Horehound Syrup and have not had a sick day since. That's what it did for me.' Sold by W. M. Johnson.

State Fair at Tampa.

On account of the Florida State Mid-Winter Fair at Tampa, Nov. 14th to 30th, the Atlantic Coast Line Railway will sell tickets for one fare plus 75 cents (including admission coupon) for the round trip. These tickets will be on sale from points north and west of Archer, Gainesville, Rochelle, Hawthorn and Palatka, including these points, Nov. 13, 15, 17, 20, 22, 24, 27 and 29th. From points south of the above points and not including them Nov. 13th and daily thereafter except Saturday and Sunday up to and including all trains scheduled to arrive in Tampa before noon of Nov. 29th. Final limit leaving Tampa Nov. 30th.

The Tampa Fair this year will be on a much larger scale than heretofore and large crowds will go from all parts in this and other States. It will be an excellent opportunity to meet old friends and renew pleasant acquaintances.

Full information can be had from all Atlantic Coast Line agents or from Frank C. Boylston, District Passenger Agent, Atlantic Coast Line, Jacksonville, Fla.

Why You Should Let the Photographer Do the Posing.

"I always hate to have my picture taken, because I have such a horrid long neck," said the woman petulantly as she entered the photographer's gallery.

He smiled sympathetically. "Wait till you see the picture I take," he replied. "You won't know your own neck, so to speak. No, it isn't in retouching, but I always pose a long necked subject lower than the camera, and the neck shortens up. That's only one of the tricks of the trade. The hatchet faced man I pose looking straight into the camera in a full light. His face seems to broaden and become more fleshy in this pose. The person with a fat, round face I place so that soft shadows veil either side of the face, which has a tendency to make the features more clear cut and handsome.

"I often have subjects with crooked noses. Now, a crooked nose should be frankly attacked—that is, the camera should be pointed directly at the crook, which reduces it. If I took it from the side the deformity would be exaggerated a hundredfold.

"The homeliest persons need not fear having their pictures taken if they will put themselves wholly in the photographer's hands and pose just as they are instructed to."—New York Press.

Lonely Man In a Crowd.

"Once in a great while," remarked the old New Yorker, "I have been caught out on Broadway in the theater district just as the women and girls were coming out from the matinee performances. In spite of the fact that there are always a great many men in this crowd the proportion of femininity is overwhelming, and I've been puzzled to find a satisfactory reason for my sense of confusion and embarrassment. But now I know just how I feel and why I have the emotions that always beset me so keenly there at such a time. I am simply suffering in the way a man always does who goes to an afternoon tea and finds himself the only one of his kind who has appeared on the scene."—New York Press.

No Case of Pneumonia on Record.

We do not know of a single instance where a cough or cold resulted in pneumonia or consumption when Foley's Honey and Tar had been taken. It cures coughs and colds perfectly, so do not take chances with some unknown preparation which may contain opiates, which cause consumption, a condition that retards recovery from a cold. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered. J. W. McCollum & Co.

Mary, Queen of Scots.

Mary, queen of Scots, must have believed in phonetic spelling, for she wrote to her son in 1570:

Deir Son—I sen thir berares to see zow and bring me word how ze do and to remember zow to learne in tyme to love, knaw and feir God, and nixt yat, conforme to Goddis command and good nature, to remember ye dewtie aner hir yat hes borne zow in hir sydes. I send zow a buik to learne ye samyn, and I pray God zow may learne yat begenning, and that he will give zow his blessing, as I do hartile give zow myne, in help zow sall deserve it quhan zow come to discretion. Your loving and good moder,

MARIE R.

The Turks and the Crescent.

When Philip of Macedon approached by night with his troops to scale the walls of Byzantium the moon, then new or in crescent, shone out and discovered his design to the besieged, who repulsed him. The crescent was after that adopted as the favorite badge of the city. When the Turks took Byzantium they found the crescent in every public place and, believing it to possess some magical power, adopted it themselves.

Be Charitable

To your horses as well as to yourself. You need not suffer from pains of any sort—your horses need not suffer. Try a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment. It cures all pains. J. M. Roberts, Bakersfield, Mo., writes: "I have used your Liniment for ten years and find it to be the best I have ever used for man or beast." Sold by W. M. Johnson.

Schnapps Tobacco is Made ENTIRELY from Flue Cured Tobacco Grown in the Piedmont Country. The Imitation Brands Have Schnapps Quality Only On the Outside Of the Plug

Hundreds of imitation brands are on sale that look like Schnapps tobacco. The outside of the imitation plugs of tobacco is flue cured the same as Schnapps, but the inside is filled with cheap, flimsy, heavily sweetened air cured tobacco. One chew of Schnapps will satisfy tobacco hunger longer than two chews of such tobacco. The color, size and shape of the tags, plugs and packages of certain imitation brands of tobacco have been made so much like Schnapps that they have often been accepted by buyers under the belief that they were getting Schnapps. Sufficient proof has been secured to establish the fact that certain brands are infringements and in violation of the trade mark laws, yet the trade will continue to be imposed upon by these infringers until the suit already entered and now pending to protect Schnapps is decided. A great many of these imitations are claimed to be "just as good" as Schnapps, but there is only one genuine Schnapps. Be sure the letters on the tag, and stamped on the plug under the tag spell S-C-H-N-A-P-P-S and then you have it—the most wholesome tobacco produced, with just enough sweetening to preserve the mild, juicy, stimulating quality of the leaf tobacco. Expert tests prove that this flue cured tobacco, grown in the famous Piedmont region, requires and takes less sweetening than any other and has a wholesome, stimulating, satisfying effect on chewers.

If the tobacco you are chewing don't satisfy you more than the mere habit of expectorating, stop fooling yourself and chew Schnapps tobacco. Schnapps is like the tobacco chewers formerly bought costing from 75c. to $1.00 per pound; Schnapps is sold at 50c. per pound, in 5c. cuts, strictly 10c. and 15c. plugs.

Helping His Finish.

"You'll find I'm hard to discourage," said the persistent suitor melodramatically. "Some day I'll make you admit you love me, and then—and not till then—I will die happy."

"I'll say it now," replied the heartless girl. "I don't mind telling a lie for a good end."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Cole Bros.' Circus.

The Cole Bros. circus appeared in this city Thursday, presenting an afternoon and evening performance.

The announcement of the fact that the circus would be here attracted people from every section of the county, with the result that the city was well filled.

Those who attended the performances were pleased. As a whole the performance was a good, clean one.

Low Rates To Tampa.

The Seaboard Air Line will sell, account State Fair, tickets from Gainesville to Tampa and return at one fare, plus 25 cents. Children's rate, half fare. Tickets will be placed on sale November 13, 15, 17, 20, 22, 24, 27 and 29, good returning to and including November 30. Trains leave Gainesville at 7:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. Albert Endel, for many years a resident and business man of this city but now of Jacksonville, is in the city. His numerous friends here are always glad to see him.

Wylie Hines, an old and well known resident of Willeford, was among those who came to Gainesville on court business this week. Mr. Hines has a great many friends in this section.

Contractors are engaged at the dairy farm of Major J. O. Andrews, East Gainesville, sinking a two-inch well. The well when completed will serve the farm in admirable shape, and will do away with the city tariff.

Stephen Cullen and his interesting daughter, little Miss Clara, were in the city from Hague yesterday. Steve formerly resided here, and has many friends who are always glad to meet him and renew old associations.

If you are going to Tampa to witness the sights of the great State Fair remember the old reliable Seaboard. Double-daily service which puts you at destination on time. Rates, one fare, plus 25 cents, children half-fare, plus 25 cents. For particulars see Mr. Cobb.

S. G. Gay and C. W. Slaughter of Micanopy were in the city yesterday, having come on a combined business and pleasure trip. Mr. Gay has just returned from Tampa, where he has been to attend the State Fair. He says the Fair is the "hugest ever," and he was well pleased with what he saw. He is particularly impressed with Alachua county's exhibit throughout, and pays Manager Callison a high compliment.
